

10 TYPES OF ONLINE DATERS

by PlentyOfFish

the women

1 the sobber

[emotional, unavailable, clingy, confused, insecure, indecisive]

This girl is really not ready to date yet, and everyone knows it but her. She's calling out her ex boyfriend (the jerk took the cat when they broke up) in her profile, and at least 3 of the images of her profile have everything but his arm around her cropped out. Her headline definitely reads: "Are ALL men the same!?"

2 the hot non-responder

[confident, unapproachable, irresistible, eye-catching, undeniable, seductive]

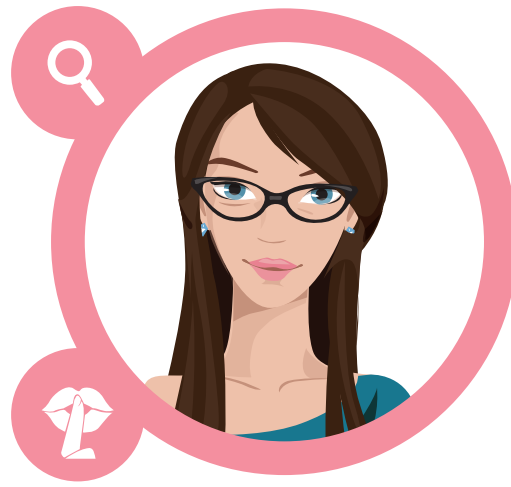

Despite most of the images on her profile being bathroom/bedroom selfies, they're incredibly hot selfies and they round up some significant attention. Her profile mentions something about her friend's convincing her to join the site, but she never responds to any messages. In the rare case that she actually does, it's never more than 3-5 words.

3 carmen sandiego

[mysterious, temptress, cautious, secretive, reserved, complicated]

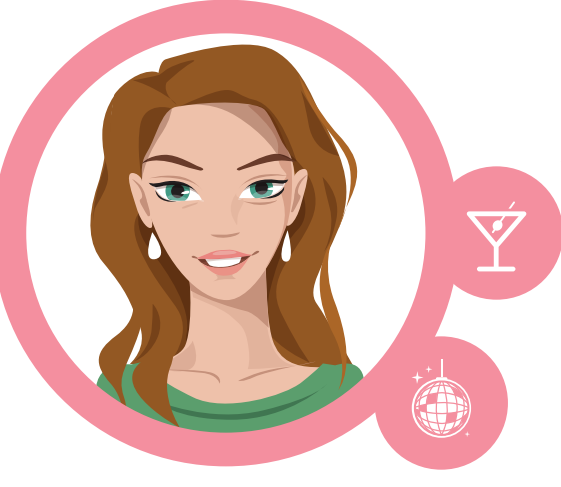

Just like the 1980's character, Carmen Sandiego, this woman is a mystery. She provides little details on her profile and when you message her back, she refuses to send a photo, give out contact information or share her social media accounts. She then halts communication. Does she exist in another dimension, or in the witness protection program?

4 the "woo!" girl

[social butterfly, untamable, wild, spontaneous, outgoing, amusing]

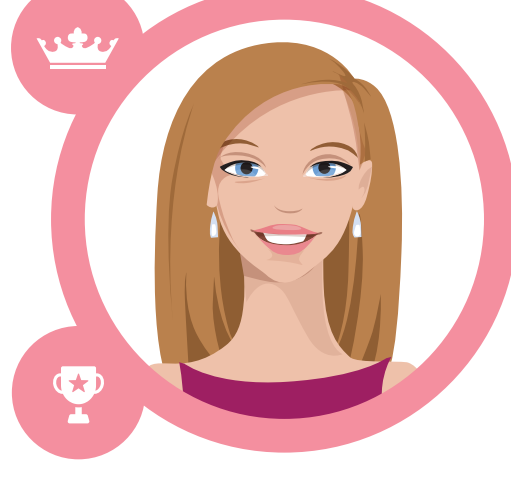

The Party Girl – Every picture in her profile has a drink in her hand, usually with several girlfriends in a bar or nightclub. You might even see a picture of her on a mechanical bull. She's quick to share her number with you and toss out an invite to meet up for shots.

5 the queen bee

[independent, leader, secure, bossy, dominant, bold]

Just like Beyonce, this woman is independent, witty and saucy. She aggressively adds you to her "Favorites" and you are hooked. You get a feeling that when it comes to dating she could take it or leave it, and you hope she doesn't leave it.

the men

1 the world traveler

[adventurous, charming, daring, undateable, fascinating, ambitious]

This guy has images of him in exotic destinations, over-looking Machu Picchu sunsets or hugging tigers in Thailand. He responds to your email saying he wants to meet you when he returns from Nicaragua, but never gets in touch. If he does, its to let you know he is in town for one weekend in between adventures.

2 the relic

[determined, suave, assured, persuasive, strong-minded, interesting]

He's several decades too old for you, but thinks he still has a shot with you. Some of these men might sound charming, while others are plain creepy. Do you call him out for emailing a woman 15 years younger than him?

3 the spammer

[desperate, persistent, bragger, showoff, player, unaffectionate]

He takes playing the numbers game to the next level. Without reading a single word on anyone's profile, he's sending out "Hey sexy, I came across your profile and would love to get to know you better!!!" in multiples of ten every few hours. By the next day he'll lose track of who he contacted and you'll end up with at least 4 of the same message from him.

4 the dog-whisperer

[friendly, charming, athletic, responsible, smooth talker]

This guy's profile is riddled with pictures of him and his canine friend. Playing at the beach! A selfie of them cuddling! His headline probably reads: "Must Love Dogs!" He long ago realized that his dog-friend makes an excellent wingman when it comes to the ladies, and he's milking it. Dog park for a first date anyone?

5 the hopeful romantic

[hopeful, modest, affectionate, eager, vulnerable, desperate]

An adorably elaborate "First Date" section on his profile, a cute photo with his niece at a family reunion, a message containing something he read in your profile! AND he owns a car? That's it, you're proposing.

